Rev. Bobby B. Cox, Pastor

Dear Mount Calvary Church Family,

We would like to take a moment and share with you our response here at Mount Calvary to the global COVID-19 outbreak.

First, we are being cautious, intentional and prayerful. We are taking every precaution to ensure that our worship experiences follow CDC guidelines. As people of faith, our desire is to take necessary and responsible steps free from fear or anxiety. We believe our response should be one that is bathed in prayer and responsibly informed by resources from medical professionals and governing officials.

Secondly, with this in mind, we will continue to facilitate measures to maintain as clean an environment on our church campus and in assemblies as possible. These measures include additional cleaning protocols for all doors and points of entry into the building. Furthermore, we believe it is very important for our church community to remain informed about COVID-19, recognize the symptoms, and practice healthy hygiene habits by coughing or sneezing into your elbow and if you are not feeling well, please stay home and return to us when you're fully recovered to help prevent the spread of illness.

Thirdly, currently, we do not anticipate any changes to schedules or activities. As a church family, we will continue the traditional practice of greeting our neighbors with gentle elbow bumps and friendly waves. The love and warmth remain; the delivery will only be different. We will continue to monitor this situation and stay in communication with you should any changes be warranted.

Lastly, in spite of our present state of affairs, we are confident our God will see us through these challenging times. For our God is greater than all our fears! In difficult days, we place our trust in God to provide for us, our church, and our community. Psalm 27:1-5

Yours in the struggle,

Pastor Bob
